

SCOPE OF SERVICES

ADDENDUM

The Ohlone Community College District (CCD) in partnership with the Alameda County WIB will be responsible for the coordination of training services under the Department of Labor's High Growth Job Training Initiative: Bay Area Biotech Consortium Career Pathways Project. Ohlone CCD will serve as the primary trainer for the bio-pharmaceutical technician and entry level manufacturing jobs for the Alameda County WIB.

Under the direction of the Tri-Cities One-Stop Career Center Director, the BioTech Program Coordinator is responsible for overseeing the project. In addition, the BioTech Program Coordinator will provide assessment and in-depth case management services to eligible clients, and will be responsible for performance outcomes as determined by the Department of Labor.

Targeted populations for this project will include dislocated workers from the airline, aerospace and IT industries, and economically disadvantaged individuals.
