

9 May 2005

I, James Barton am here by announcing my resignation from my position of employment at Ohlone College as of 2 June 2005. I have enjoyed much of my time working for Ohlone College but I no longer feel I have much to contribute anymore. I do not feel that Ohlone College has much more to offer me either. I feel the need to move on and find a place where I can grow because as my boss Steven Fajardo has reminded me many times that this is a dead end job.
