T.O. put on timeout

There is a plethora of words to describe Terrell Owens: superstar, egotistical, big-headed, show-boat, big-mouthed, I can go on and on with this but I'll have mercy and spare you the rest of the list.

As you may have all heard, "Mr. Sharpie" himself has been dished an additional suspension for his comments about the Eagles franchise. It's needless to point out what Owens said, but no doubt it was his typical colorful feedback. The second serving of being suspended includes another three games and remaining inactive for the remainder of the season.

This is way overdue.

Owens has single handedly destroyed not only the reputation of the Philadelphia Eagles franchise but also the NFL itself. It has gotten so out of hand that Eagles' Head Coach Andy Reid has said it is very doubtful that T.O. will even wear an Eagles jersey ever again.

Bold move Reid, bold move indeed. Kicking off your top player is calling for another immediate halt at the League Championship game, and that's if you're lucky and actually finish above the 500 mark. But then again, the Eagles are all about the dramatics, remember McNabb's performance on that broken foot a few seasons back?

Owens is a cancer, anywhere he goes trouble will emerge.

His stock has dropped so low that it'll feel like the Great Depression has dropped right into his lap.

No team will want him, no fans will want him - even if it means a shot at the Lombardi trophy - and owners won't open up the check-book for him. Face it T.O., you just put the second foot in the grave, might as well pour the dirt on now. So there goes your house, your cars and all your bling bling.

However, if you think about it, the NFL would be better off without him. We finally can get back to the actual game itself and not have to worry about the stupidity of his actions or words.

This season is chalk full of stories worth telling. The Bengals are 7-2, that's right the Bengals people!! Let's throw some more love LaDainian Tomlinson's way too, I mean the man is scoring touchdowns in every possible way. And what about Peyton and Eli? The possibility of a Manning vs. Manning Super Bowl isn't exciting enough? Come on!

Now, better late than never, Owens has once again apologized, an actual one this time. He has just finally realized that he is human and can be expandable. I only have one thing to say about that, IT'S ABOUT DAMN TIME!!

Lady Renegades snap win streak

By SARA KWAN

It was a cold and windy day. Rain was threatening and the wind was whistling, but the Lady Renegades took the field against DeAnza College. Despite weather conditions, there were a few rays of sunshine, but the sun did not shine on Ohlone as their six-game winning streak turned into a game losing streak Tuesday afternoon.

The Lady Renegades, who also lost to Cabrillo over the weekend, came into this game ranking third in the conference with De Anza ranking second. Ohlone lost the first game against De Anza, but there is no doubt that DeAnza has a great team.

Throughout the first half, the Lady Renegades were sluggish.

DeAnza scored their first goal on a penalty kick within the first few minutes of the game. For the remainder of the first half, Ohlone created few opportunities for themselves to score, but DeAnza was able to score when they gained momentum towards the end of the half.

A long shot was scored from the corner of the field next to the Ohlone net by DeAnza. They then closed out the half with another goal, giving themselves a 3-0 advantage over the struggling Lady Renegades. After the third goal by DeAnza, Ohlone Head Coach Larry Heslin took out starting goalie Ambur Hollenshead, and put in the regular starter Amanda Lopez.

Star midfielder Ana Ceja received a yellow card towards the end of the first half. Ceja played with frustration throughout the game, and showed how deep the tension was out on the playing field.

After halftime, Ohlone came out stronger, and played great defense to prevent DeAnza from scoring any more, but unfortunately, the Lady Renegades were unable to score either.

Lopez continued guarding Ohlone's goal with a few highlighted stops to lead Ohlone's defense.

In particular, Lopez had the task of blocking a penalty kick. It was a one-on-one battle between Lopez and the kicker for De Anza, and Lopez prevailed as she reached high to deflect the ball from entering into the goal.

Sarah Fernandez played aggressively on the offensive end throughout the game, but did not receive any help from her teammates.

She created some opportunities for herself and her teammates to score, but the Lady Renegades were unable to capitalize.

Up next for the Lady Renegades will be at home, Friday against rival Chabot on the Ohlone soccer field. The game will be part of a double header with the men's soccer team playing DeAnza at 3 p.m.

Tweedy to sign intent letter

Ohlone baseball star Jason Tweedy is expected to sign a letter of intent today to play for Long Beach State University. Tweedy has been highly scouted by many schools and has received many scholarship offers.

The shortstop, who played for the Renegades last season, will play one last season for Ohlone before shipping out to Long Beach next fall.

Tweedy and Ohlone Manager Paul Moore are expected to make the official announcement and signing today between 4:30 and 5 p.m. Look for Tweedy to open his final season with the Renegades this upcoming February.

Tourney to honor Wallace, killed in crash

The second annual Jonathan Wallace Memorial tournament gets under way this week end here on the Ohlone campus. The tournament, which was originally called the Renegade Rumble Basketball tournament, was re-named in remembrance of Wallace who died last year in a car crashed coming home from a car show in Reno.

Wallace was a presence on and off the court and touched everyone's lives.

Perhaps the most noticeable touched by Wallace was Ohlone Head Coach John Peterson. Peterson wrote a short story in the EOPS magazine, Opportunity, in the winter of last year about how much of an extraordinary person Jonathan Wallace was.

"He understood that the word 'student' came before the word 'athlete'," said Peterson in his article.

Before his untimely death, Wallace had a 3.5 GPA, and was heading to Adams State College in Alamosa, Colorado, on a full scholarship.

Last year the Renegades honored their fallen comrade by retiring his jersey and won two games before losing in the final round.

Among the teams appearing in this year's tournament will be the College of Alameda, Snow College, Columbia, Diablo Valley College, Feather River Community College, Sacramento City College and Shasta College.

The tournament will start at 2 p.m. on Friday afternoon and will continue on Saturday and Sunday.

All proceeds from the weekend tournament will go toward to the scholarship foundation founded by Jonathan's parents, Michael and Velma Wallace.
