A CALL TO ACTION
Introductory Message from Dr. Bishop

Ohlone College is committed to serving each and every student with equity at the forefront of all that we do and recognize the need for a systematic approach to reviewing how we are working toward this goal. Inspired by the California Community College Chancellor’s Call to Action, we, as an institution, are united in taking a close look at how we can better serve our students through the lens of equity and humanity.

Incidents of racism are not new to our country and have long been dismissed and ignored. Years of racial discrimination, violence, and injustice have tainted a country which claims to provide “liberty and justice for all.” With recent headlines involving the killing of black people by police—the very people meant to protect and serve our communities—we can no longer stand silent as bystanders to racial discrimination.

As an educational institution, we must lead the charge in creating change and teaching the next generation but we must first take every effort to create that very shift within.

A Report of the Ohlone College Leadership Retreat

A Great Place to Work

In an exercise to practice using Stormboard before the retreat, the team members answered a few fun questions.

- Why is Ohlone College a great place to work?
- If you could change one thing about Ohlone College, what would it be?
- Who or what at Ohlone College most influences you?

The Storm revealed an overwhelming appreciation for the college, its geographical setting, the community it serves and the people who serve. By far, the humanity that Ohlone College encompasses (Students – People – Faculty) was acknowledged in the exercise. The question about a change prompted responses related to the need for increased equity and inclusion with faculty and staff, professional development to keep up with the demands on the job, the need for more and transparent communication and real shared (participatory) governance, changes to address

Insurrection at the Capitol
Justice and Reconciliation on our Campuses and in our Nation

• The events of January 6, 2021 rattled the nation to its core as thousands stormed the Capitol in a planned attempt to unturn the results of a democratic election and to siege elected officials. In the wake of this insurrection, the nation’s college and university leaders are contemplating how to respond. The extreme ideologies that led to the insurrection at the capitol are reflective of radicalized ideological and theological perspectives that are evident in larger society and on college campuses. Within this context, this webinar will examine the viewpoints and perspectives that led to the insurrection at the Capitol. The speakers will also offer recommendations for college and university leaders on how to advocate for justice and reconciliation in on our campuses and in our nation.

In celebration of 2021 International Women's Day and Women's History Month, employees in STEAM, who work at Ohlone College, will provide an intimate look into their paths and continued struggles to “Choose to Challenge.” The experiences of women in STEAM can be invisible and often a collection of seemingly subtle, inconsequential quick comments or actions that appear to be unintentional, can cause job burnout, health issues, and may lead to discouraging others to pursue their passions.

Isidore Niyongabo

Black Deaf and Proud

Isidore Niyongabo is the current President of National Black Deaf Advocates, the founder and Executive Director of International Deaf Education, Advocacy, and Leadership (IDEAL), and Director of Employment Relations at Convocommunications. Most recently, Isidore was appointed, for the second time in a row, to serve as the Co-chair for the 4th term of the Federal Communication Commission’s Disability Advisory Committee.

Originally from Burundi, Isidore’s world changed when he contracted and survived spinal meningitis. He started his journey as a Deaf person.

After overcoming the challenges and obstacles in accessibility during his early education in Burundi, he moved to California to pursue higher education. His accessible and inclusive education in the US started at Ohlone College, California where he graduated in 2008 with an Associate’s degree in Liberal Arts with concentration in social sciences. Further, Isidore holds a Bachelor’s degree in Psychology from San Francisco State University, and a Master’s degree in Peace and Justice Studies from the University of San Diego with concentration in International Human Rights and Development.

While not in his office, he continues to advocate for access to education and a better quality of life for deaf children and youth in sub-saharan Africa and globally through IDEAL. In addition, Isidore travels the world inspiring thousands of people through his story filled with examples of perseverance, self-reliance, courage, and hope while advocating for an equitable, diverse, inclusive, and accessible world for Deaf and hard of Hearing people.
